ALL GERMANY HOSTILE TOU. S. SOON AFTER WAR STARTED, SAYS GERARD

American Ambassador Writes That Government Backed Propaganda Against This Country, Founded on Munitions Shipments.

GRAND DUKE DENOUNCED U. S. AT RECEPTION

Kaiser's Government Set Great Assurance Upon Austrian Envoy's Note That Bryan Had Told Him U. S. Was Only Bluffing in Its Lusitania Threats.

The American diplomat's experiences at the German Court until the entrance of Germany into the war.

By James W. Gerard, American Ambassador to the German Imperial Court, July 28, 1913, to February 4, 1917.

Any infringement will be prosecuted. T international law it had always been recognized that private individuals and corporations have the right to sell arms and munitions of war to any belligerent, and in The Hague convention held in 1907 this right was expressly ratified and confirmed. This same Director Kriege, who represented Germany at this Hague conference in 1907, in the debates on this point said:

The neutral boats which engage in such a trade commit a violation of the duties of neutrality. However, according to a principle generally recognized, the State of which the boat files the flag is not responsible for this violation. The neutral States are not called upon to forbid their subjects a commerce, which, from the point of view of the belligerents, ought to be considered as unlawful. (Conference Internationale de la Faix, la Haye, 15 Juin-18 Octobre, 1907. Vol. III, p. 859.)

During our troubles with Gen. Huerta arms and ammunition for Huerta's forces from Germany were landed from German ships in Mexico. During the Boer War, the Germans, who openly sympathized with the Boers, nevertheless furnished great quantities of arms and munitions expressly destined to be used againt the Boers to England; and this although it was manifest that there was no possibility whatever that the Boers could obtain arms and munitions from German sources during the war. For instance, the firm of Eberhardt, in Dusseldorf, furnished 109 cannon, complete with wagons, caissons and munitions, etc., to the English expressly designed for use against the Boers.

Germany Reverses Position on Arms Export. At one time the Imperial Foreign Office sent me a formal note concerning a paragraph in former Ambassador Andrew D. White's autobiography with reference to the alleged stoppage in a German port of a boat laden with arms Submarine Note to Neutrals Changed. and ammunition for use against the Americans in Cuba during the Spanish War. Of course, former Ambassador White wrote without having the embassy records at hand, and these records show that the position he took at the time of this alleged stoppage was eminently correct. The files show that he wrote the letter to the State Department in which he stated that knowledge came to him of the proposed sailing of this ship, but he did not protest, because he had been advised by a naval attache that the United States did not have the right to interfere. The Department of State wrote to him commending his action in not filing any protest or otherwise interfering. It seemed as if the German Government expressly desired to stir up hatred against America on this issue in order to force the American Government, through fear of either the German Government or the German-Amrican propagandists at home, to put an immediate embargo on export of these

Zimmermann showed me in the autumn of 1914 a long list sent him by Bernstorff reporting quantities of saddles, automobiles, motor trucks, tires, explosives, foodstuffs and so on exported from America to the allies, and he intimated that this traffic had reached such proportion that it should be

Germany's Far-Reaching Anti-American Propaganda. In February, 1915, in the official communique of the day appeared the following statement: "Heavy artillery fire in certain sections of the west front, mostly with American ammunition;" and in April, in the official communique, something to this effect: "Captured French artillery officers say that they have great stores of American ammunition." I obained through the State Department in Washington a statement from the French Ambassador certifying that up to that time, the end of April, 1915, no shells whatever of the French artillery had been furnished from America. Nothing, however, would satisfy the Germans. They seemed determined that the export of every article, whether of food or munitions, which might prove of use to the allies in the war should be stopped. Newspapers were filled with bitter attacks upon America and upon President Wilson, and with caricatures referring to the sale of munitions. It never seemed to occur to the Germans that we could not violate the Hague convention in order to change the rules of the game because one party after the commencement of hostilities, found that the rule worked to his disadvantage. Nor did the Germans consider that America could not vary its international law with the changing fortunes of war and make one ruling when the Germans lost control of the sea and another if they regained it.

Denunciation by a German Grand Duke.

From early in 1915 until I left Germany I do not think I ever had a conversation with a German without his alluding to this question. Shortly before leaving Germany, in January, 1917, and after I had learned of the probability of the resumption of ruthless submarine war, at an evening party at Dr. Bolf's, the Colonial Minister's, a large German, who turned out to be one of the Grand Dukes of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, planted himself some distance away from me and addressed me in German, saying: "You are the American Ambassador and I want to tell you that the conduct of America in furmishing arms and ammunition to the enemies of Germany is stamped deep on the German heart, that we will never forget it and will some day have our

He spoke in a voice so loud and slapped his chest so hard that everyone revenge." in the room stopped his conversation in order to hear. As he wore on his breast the orders of the Black Eagle, the Red Eagle, the Elephant and the Seraphim, when he struck all this menagerie the rattle alone was quite loud. I reminded him politely of The Hague convention, of the fact that we could not change international law from time to time with the change in the in that note. situation of the war and that Germany had furnished arms to England to use against the Boers. But he simply answered, saying, "We care nothing for treaties," and my answer, "That is what they all say," was a retort too

The German press continually published articles to the effect that the obvious to be omitted.

German Paper Money Bearing Legend "Gott Strafe England und Amerika"

MBASSADOR GERARD says these 20 mark ($5.00) bills, bearing the legend surcharged across their face, were circulated throughout Germany soon after the war began and while the German propaganda against American shipments of munitions to the allies was most virulent.

war would be finished if it were not for the shipment of supplies from Amer ica. All public opinion was with the German Government when the warning was issued on Feb. 4, 1915, stating that the blockade of England would comnence on the 18th and warning neutral shps to keep out of the war zone.

Series of Attacks on American Ships and Lives.

From then on we had constant cases and crises with reference to the sink-From then on we had constant cases and crises with reference to the sink-ing of American boats by the German submarines. There were the cases of the Gulflight and the Cushing and the Falaba, an English boat sunk without used by our allies as when used by our own men, and it is obviously unjust to warning, on which Americans wert killed.

On May 6, 1915, Director Kriege, of the Foreign Office, asked Mr. Jack-On May 6, 1915, Director Kriege, of the Foreign Office, asked Mr. Jack-son to call and see him, and told him that he would like to have the following three points brought to the attention of the American public:

1. As the result of the English effort to stop our foreign commerce with Germany, Germany would do everything in her power to destroy English commerce and merchant shipping. There was, however, never at any time an intention to destroy or interfere with neutral commerce or to attack neutral shipping unless engaged in contraband trade. In view of the action of the British Government in arming merchant vessels and causing them to develop their national character, the occasional destruction of a neutral ship was unavoidable. Naval officers in command of submarines had been instructed originally, and new and more stringent instructions had been issued repeatedly to use the utmost care consistent with their own safety, to avoid attacks on neutral

2. In case a neutral ship should be destroyed by a submarine, the German Government is prepared to make an immediate and formal expression of its regret and to pay an indemnity, without having recourse

3. All reports with regard to the destructon of a neutral vessel by a German submarine are investigated at once by both the German Foreign Office and Admiralty, and the result is communicated to the Government concerned, which is requested in return to communicate to the German Government the result of its own independent investigation. Where there is any material divergence in the two reports as to the presumed cause of destruction (torpedo or mine), the question is to be submitted to investigation by a commission composed of representatives of the two nations concerned with a neutral arbiter, whose decision will be final. This course has already been adopted in two cases, in which a Dutch and a Norwegian vessel, respectively, were concerned. The German Government reserves its right to refuse this international arbitration in exceptional cases where for military reasons the German Admiralty is opposed to its taking place. Director Kriege told Mr. Jackson that a written communication in which the substance of the foregoing would be contained would soon be made to

Mr. Jackson put this conversation down in the form given and showed Director Kriege a copy of it. Later in the day Geheimrat Simon called on Mr. Jackson at the embassy and said that Dr. Kriege would like to have point two read as follows: "In case through any unfortunate mistake a neutral ship," etc., and that Dr. Kriege would like to change what was ment of the President on that subject: written on point three beginning with "Where there is" and continuing to the end so that it should read:

Where there is any material divergence in the two reports as to the presumed cause of destruction (torpedo or mine), the German Government has already in several astances declared its readiness to submit the question to the accision of an international commission, in accordance with The Hague convention for the friendly settlement of international

Of course, the news of the torpedoing of the Lusitania on May 7 and of quence is that the cost to the public of the great loss of American lives brought about a very critical situation and naturally nothing was done with Kriege's propositions.

It is unnecessary here for me to go into the notes which were exchanged between the two Governments, because all that is already public property. Some time after I had delivered our first Lusitania note of May 11, 1915, Zimmermann was lunching with us. A good-looking American woman married to a German was also of the party, and after lunch, although I was talking to someone else, I overheard part of her conversation with Zimmer-

I then called on Zimmermann at the Foreign Office, and he showed me Dumba's cablegram, which was substantially as stated above.

Of course, I immediately cabled to the State Department and also got word to President Wilson. The rest of the incident is public property. I, of course, did not know what actually occurred between Mr. Bryan and Dr.

HAIR OFTEN RUINED BY WASHING WITH SOAP

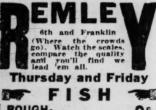

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just brdinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, ereamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—ADV.

Says His Religion Opposes War, But Won't Claim Exemption. Russell E. Widmer, 22 years old, a machinist, of 3639A Cass avenue, after Twentieth Ward Board was asked by John J. Nally, a member of the board, if he desired to claim exemption. "I don't have to," he said. "I belong o a religious, sect that doesn't believe in war." Nally told him even in that case ne must file an exemption claim.

Well, I don't believe in fighting and I won't fight under any circumstances, when he entered was and I won't claim exemption," said Wid-At Widmer's home his mother said he had been under treatment for his hearing and she was surprised he passed the religiou beliefs or tell to what church he belonged. Widmer's parents came from Germany, but he was born here.

Two Six-Footers Waive All Ceremony and Join Service. Two six footers appeared at the Third Ward Exemption Board today and wa'vng all ceremony announced their in ention to enter military service un nditionally. They are Joseph Husbands, 918 Warren street, and George Washington Lavely, 2415 North Ninth. Both are switchmen and are apparently fine specimens of physical manhood. William Sessinghaus, the clerk, accepted the men at once, and they appeared greatly pleased. Lavely explained he and Husbands and intended to volunteer for the regalar army, but when their names wer drawn in the first draft decided to wait the summons and enter by that method. Both are unmarried.

Bar Men.

A few pounds under weight will not obtain a discharge in the Twenty-fifth Ward, where Dr. J. Friedman is supervising the medical examinations. Four men have complained because Dr. previous weighings, had satisfied themselves that they were under weight.

"I'm giving Uncle Sam the benefit of the doubt," the physician said. "The men whom I have accepted are all right as to health, and a few weeks' outdoor life will probably bring them up to weight. The standard of weight in proportion to height is, in my opinion, little too high."

With Two 13's Will Not Claim Exemption. The fortuitous figures "13" appear twice in connection with the name of F. . Bittner of Wellston, who had serial number 1313, and was number 13 in the order of call. He was accepted by the examining board, and said he would not laim exemption.

Dr. Edwin P. Meiners of the staff o St. Luke's Hospital was one of those rejected by the examining physicians in he Twenty-eighth.

"Conscientious Objector" Appears Be-fore Clayton Board. An avowed "conscientious objector" made his appearance before the Clayton draft board today. He is Carl Robert Meier, 29 years old, single, who is in the sheet metal business and lives at 7321 Manchester avenue, Maplewood. He said he was opposed on principle to war, believing it to be "nothing but wholesale manslaughter." He was asked whether he was a member, before May 18 last, of a sect or organization whose creed or principles forbid its members to participate in war. He did not say that he was a member of any such ortion for such persons, but not for others.

Registrants Enjoy Selves While Wait-ing for Physical Tests. Wife Aska That Husband's Claim for Exemption Be Denied Mrs. William Luka of 2404A North Fourteenth street, today wrote a letter to Dr. R. F. Amyx of the Third Ward Draft Board, asking the board deny the exemption claim of her husband, William Luka. After being examined he said he had a dependent wife and child.

In her letter Mrs. Luka says they were married July 16. She was a widow with a five months' old baby. She alleges contributed to the support of her and the child, and therefore she does not think he is entitled to exemption.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Negro and the Constitution. To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

On July 5 appeared in the columns of your paper an editorial on the proposed amendment of the Constitution of the United States providing for national prohibition. Among other things it was stated that if the proposed amendment became law it would mean "a new scandal of the Constitution joined to the scandal of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments which no Congress, whether Democratic or Republican, has dared to enforce in respect to the negro vote in the Southern States.' This fact which you merely stated incidentally to illustrate the fatuity of a law which did not meet popular approval, is semething more than an incident with millions of negro citizens who bear the weight of this injustice from day to day. It is offer our lives for our country

Mr. Wilson in his Flag day address stated that "here in the United States we are accustomed to deal with facts and not with sophistries and the great fact that stands out above all the rest is that this is a people's war, a war for freedom and justice and self-government, amongst all the nacrisies and patent cheats and masks of brute force and help set the world free.' KAISER AND PRESIDENT.

Remarking that the new German Ministers are handed down from above and that the making of history appears to be the sole privilege of the army, the Berlin Tageblatt, commenting on the new Michaelis Cabinet, adds, with fine irony, "the great German nation, which is the only 'kultur' people in the world, exercises neither direct nor indirect influence in the selection of its servants.

We quote the Tageblatt and refer to the German situation for the benefit of Senator Reed, who talks with befogged mind and loose tongue of our "masters" laying on the lash, and of others who foolishly speak of Prussianizing our Government because the President is given large powers for the conduct of the war.

In Germany the Emperor declared war, the Em peror appoints the heads of the governmental departments without the consent of Parliament; the legislative body controlled by the Emperor pro-Reichstag-a privilege ignored at will-and the Emperor's own imperial legislative body prorogues the Reichstag when it pleases His Majesty to have it done. In short, the Government is controlled and all it does is directed by the Emperor sponsible to no human being or human power and can be checked only by revolution.

The President's power is defined and limited by the Constitution. He is answerable for its exercise to the people and their representatives in Congress. He cannot spend a dollar without the Senate. He cannot exercise a power, not enumerated in the Constitution, without legislative permission of the people's representatives in of price control created in the food bill passed Congress, who can impeach him for usurpation or Wednesday does have standing in the law and other high misdemeanor. MERCILESS COAL EXTORTIONERS.

The Governors of 15 states plan to meet at Chicago on Aug. 16 to devise measures for bringing down the price of coal.

Attorney-General McAllister of Missouri, after an inquiry disclosing important facts at Kansas City, is coming to St. Louis to find out why standard grades of coal are selling for substantially twice the price at which they could be bought one year ago.

A part of the trouble to which so much of effort and so much of power reposing in public officials will be devoted can, of course, be traced directly to the action of the Peabody Coal Production Committee of the National Defense Counil. When this committee was negotiating with the bituminous producers for a voluntary agreement on reasonable coal prices, it was suggested vides appropriations with the approval of the that such an agreement would have all the elements of an understanding violative of the restraint of trade laws.

Satisfactory assurances were at once forthcom ing from responsible Federal authorities that an agreement reached under the pending conditions would not be regarded as having been prompted or by those answerable to him alone. He is re- by criminal intent. The moment the assurance vas given the Peabody committee consented to a pit-mouth price of about three times what the mine owners have been able to command in the past. They were allowed to charge $3.50 at the mouth of the pit for ordinary merchantable grades of coal and $2.75 for run-of-mine coal.

The exorbitant price was denounced at the time the consent of Congress, nor appoint an important by Secretary of War Baker as outrageous. A Federal official without the formal approval of statement issued from the White House indicated intense disapproval of its terms.

The Peabody committee had no standing in law and no legal authority or effect. The machinery

Professing to act from a patriotic impulse-obtaining quasi-immunity under their pretense of being about to give the country an example of moderation-the coal men have made war conditions an excuse for practicing in the last few weeks the most merciless extortion known to the history of the coal trade, whose general tendency is the practice of extortion.

Price control by the voluntary agreement of the coal patriots having been a failure, we shall see what price control under penal enactment will do. Many things show that the public is not yet without hope of relief. President Wilson is said to devote 90 per cent of his working hours to the problem of checking extortion in the war crisis.

And the Governors and other state officials are not without an important work. Facts may be collected for the guidance of Federal agencies in mitigation of thievish coal prices. Extortion at the pit mouth up to this time may have immunity, but there is no immunity for collusive extortion after the coal leaves the pit mouth.

HARD TIMES ON THE FARM.

E are indebted to the News, over in Montgomery County, Ill., for the following details with respect to the horrible privation and want among farmers in that State:

William Middlesworth is holding the record for oats in Shelby County. He bought seven and a one-half bushels of seed, and threshed from it 450 bushels of oats, 136 bushels to the acre. Mr. Rigsby, the elevator man at Chesterfield, made $90 an acre with wheat on his place this year. Around Hagaman the crop was also the Kenehan farm sold his wheat for $80 an acre. Cy Loveless, north of Gillespie, made 76 bushels of oats to the acre, and on Tuesday he sold 86 head of hogs for $2600. Joseph C. Dole, west of Mattoon, shipped 75 hogs to Chicago last week. They averaged 350 pounds, and sold at $15.25 a hundred, a total of $4003.12, or $53.371/2 a hog.

Farmers in Pike County are getting from $2 to $2.28 a bushel for wheat this week. A yield of 44 bushels to the acre is reported from one farm, making $100 an acre.

Jesse Williams, near Raymond, who pays $4 an acre rent, has 12 acres in wheat this year. He threshed last week, and got $1200 for it. $100 an acre.

The crop on Fairbanks Ranch is reported from Carrollton at approximately 30,000 bushels, which at $2.25 a bushel will bring $67,500. There are besides 1000 acres of fine oats on this ranch, some of which will average 60 bushels to the acre; 1000 acres of timothy, and 3000 acres of as fine corn as ever grew out of the earth John Crawford, near Osbornville, got 60 bushels of wheat per acre from 60 acres, averaging $94 an acre. Heavy draft horses are bringing from $160 to $235 per head in East St. Louis, and mules from 16 to 161/2 hands high bring $200 to $275 per head.

Warren Beebe, near Carrolton, has 100 acres in navy beans. They are worth around $10 a bushel. He put in thirty-four bushels of seed worth $10 a bushel, but his harvest is already in sight.

S. Ordel, near Windsor, got 81 bushels of oats to the acre, and 50 to 60 bushels are common.

On the Jackie Brown farm 730 bushels of wheat were threshed from 171/2 acres, making about $100 an acre, and E. C. Brown, west of Nokomis, got $88 an acre from wheat.

Quill. A sentence stole from out the rifled Treasury of my soul. No magic art E'er yields a cure for love-no stone-age Monuments outlive the masonry That thou dost weave about my heart. Thou shalt be my day-dawn in eternity, My sunrise 'round the sapphire cup of Heaven. I feel thine auburn hair and kiss thy lilied Cheek-whose whiteness breaks to rose.

Beloved. The fields of life are sprinkled for our joy. I understand the pulse from o'er thy secret soul. I learn the languors of thine unseen sea. No real world anywhere but in thine arms, Where earth becomes a ruby in Love's crown, And from its setting leaps into a flame.

Thy voice is magical-each word a vision, Versed in stanzas of divinest symmetry. Thine eyes two dynasties of wondrous power; Urns oft-times perhaps in quiet slumber, Great gems as suns upon the breast of day.

Behold! The galleons of our love. Last night Shall I forget it e'er I die-those dreams Of mine, which now have all come true? A chamber Rich in tapestries as Arabs spin, Perfumed with fragrance of an Orient bloom. A maze and glow and mystic quivering. A dreamful joy in sweeter rapture ending. Any interposition for the purpose of op pressing American states or of controlling their destiny is regarded by the United States as an unfriendly act, and they must not be colonized by an European power. NEWLYWEDS.—Some years ago Vienna was struggling with the question, Shall men continue to raise their hats in salutation of women or shall the military form of simply touching the hat be substituted. Hundreds of letters published. A physician said: "You must change your style of covering before you can hope for a change. A turban would never be raised, and the cap, helmet or shako, being a part of the uniform, will also remain on the head of the saluting man. But the modern hat will be raised with more or less flourish until our men learn a lesson from America, where men raise their hats only to women or to men when in women's company. If we were women or shall the military form of simply men raise their nats only men when in women's company. If we were as far advanced as that and had discarded off their hats when they passed a church or a roadside chapel or cross, or when they met a religious procession. Then, when they met a woman whom they honored the hat was removed, which implied: "See! I raise my hat to you as I would to a sacred one."

Huggins' Men Score Two Deserved Runs; All of Giants' Tallies Tainted.

VISITORS ALMOST TAME

Outbursts of Nagging and Umpire-Baiting Few and Far Between, Thus Far.

Symptoms of acute stage fright, plus sub-normal fielding and some grave mistakes on offense, were the factors that handed John McGraw's silenced Giants the first game of the peries with the Cardinals yesterday. By all the laws of good baseball, the local team should have won.

Analytically, and without a tinge of "second guess" stuff here are a few things that happened yesterday: The Giants scored four runs, no of a throw by Hornsby.

A double and two singles coupled with an error, coming in sequence and followed by a base on balls, netted the Cardinals one run.

In the second, with Sallee groggy and hanging on the ropes, Jack Smith, a near 300 hitter, was benched for Betzel, who hits about 100 points less. The latter in turn gave way to Smith, batting about the size of a two-year old's aboe, and who hit the first ball Perritt pitched for a puny pop to right field.

Bases filled in second, two out, Jack Miller suffered a mental lapse, after stringing Perritt to a count of three balls and one strike. Jack hit the next pitch, forcing Sndyer at third and closing the inning. A waiting game might have helped here, as Perritt was forced to lay them over in the groove

Why Bench J. Smith?

After a fashion, Huggins may be justified in playing the old baseball 0 0 0 axiom that a southpaw hurler has the edge on a batter hitting from the same side. Yet Jack Smith has been consistently hitting port side hurling, not perhaps as hard or as easily as the other kind, but still hitting. Like all other plays, had Hug's strategy succeeded he would be credited with managerial wisdom. It failed, though, and it seems hard to reconcile the belief that Smyth, a youngster, could be expected to come through half as well as either Betzel or Smith, both young, but carrying the benefit of experience.

as well as either Betzel or Smith, both young, but carrying the benefit of experience.

Bill Doak pitched baseball good enough to win any game. The Cardinals should have won it. That slippery second, wherein Miller's over-anxiety to complete a double play before he had the ball, cost Hug's boys the game. It happened this way:

Zim was defunct via a strikeout, when Fletcher bumped a single to left. Robertson coaxed a pass. Holke hit a fast grounder to Hornsby and a certain double play loomed in the offing. "Pep" played the ball perfectly, passed it to Miller, who was set to throw to first. Jack, however muffed it, Fletcher crossing the plate and Robertson going to third. Rariden hit an anemic grounder to Doak. The pitcher was in no position to throw home after fielding it and Robertson crossed over with the second run, Rariden being retired at first. Then Sallee counted Holke with a ringing single inside the first-base line. Three runs, none of which were earned.

Burns' single get through him, although by a vivid stretch of imagination Burns was credited with a triple. He scored on Herzog's long fly to right.

Subsequent to the second, when Sallee gave way to Perritt following an exchange of strategy between Hug and McGraw, the Cardinals never had a chance. They went out in order in the third, fourth, fifth and sixth and two were down in the eighth when Miller singled, the first hit off the lanky Pol. Walton Cruise renewed a forlorn hope when he cracked the first ball pitched in the ninth inning for a home run to center field. It was a hard drive, clearing the diminutive Benny Kauff's conning tower with a margin to spare. Baird singled after Paulette died, but Bnyder and Gonzales, the latter batting for Doak, couldn't get the ball out of the infield.

DE PALMA and Oldfield have been repeating their three-race show in several cities. The performance here will be their sixth, with the previous honors now favoring Oldfield. It was even up between them, until Saturday, when Barney captured all three events at Indianapolis.

The alternation of the victories in the various cities naturally caused some attention, but news dispatches seem to indicate that the events are run honestly enough.

How much better it would have been had the promoter arranged the series of meets between different men in each city or between De Palma and other driving daredevils entitled to championship considerations, using a different opponent in each town. M. A. A. Coach Says Young Aquatic Champion Will Be Greater Swimmer Than Laubis. HAS STYLE AND SPEED Next Six Months Will Be Devoted to Physical Development of 17-Year-Old Star.

"Francis Stephens will be a greater swimmer than Herman Laubis." That is the career foreseen for St. Louis' 17-vear-old marathon aquatic champion by Karl Bauer, coach of the Missouri Athletic Association's swimning team-or rather quartet, as the Cherry Diamond tank squad has reached that numerical proportion due to the war and a retrenchment from competitive athletic activities. Bauer is highly elated over the show ng made by Stephens in the five-mile race held by the Western Rowing Club ast Sunday. He stated yesterday that The Browns still remain in poss he had expected Stephens to make a he had expected Stephens to make a good showing for two or three miles, but was even anxious as to his protege's completing the course.

"I knew that Stephens had the style and the speed; now I know that he has the endurance and the heart. I expect him to be a greater swimmer than Laubis and to be nationally recognized. The next six months will definitely answer whether he is to be a great swimmer or a mediocre one."

Next Six Months Will Tell. The half-year period to which Baue

eferred will not be one for the development of endurance and speed power for the new champion, but will be strict for the new champion, but will be strictly utilized for the development of Stephens physically. The chap is quite tall, but has not the weight or muscular development to go with his height and physical activity. The next lap in his struggle for padding supremacy will take place in the gymnasium and be guided by a diet prescribed by Bauer.

"Burke has the making of a good swimmer, if he will change his stroke. (This is the Whitaker stroke.) The stroke is all right for tall swimmers like Laubis, Goepel, and Sparks: but men of Budke's short statuure cannot efficiently use it. The stroke necessitates a continuous roll in the water from side to side which makes a short man dizzy, as he turns oftener than a tall man. I have seen Burke after employing the stroke in a long race, when a tot could push him over."

Metzger's Second Victory.

Sunday's victory here was the second si cessive victory for John Campbell Metzge the same swimmer having taken first pla in the four-mile event in the Detroit Riv swim the Saturday before. It seems strang that Metzger, after winning that race, shou ohens, who had never been in a race before, received only two minutes. Certainly Stephens asked to be put on scratch, but the claim was disregarded. That being the case, how could the officials give him a reasonable handicap at two minutes, knowing nothing of him. Other strange handicaps were those given to Leo Hogan and Sherry Mc-Bride.

The Bathrobe By P. J. Murphy.

(Written Especially for the Post-Dispatch. HERE was no gainsaying the fact—the bathrobe was ugly The peculiar mixture of yellov and green shades produced 1 general drab effect which only its designer

Maurice, the haberdasher, took from its dusty box, surveyed its un-mitigated homeliness sadly, and once more returned the box to its accus-tomed place on the shelf. It had become a regular habit of his, this in-spection of the garment in spare oments, and every repetition convinced him the more strongly that this ugly duckling among the swans of bath apparel that surrounded it would never sell.

How many times had be paraded it before prospective customers, laud-ing the virtues of the material, discreetly hinting at certain advantages in the nondescript color scheme, weighing especially on the excellence of the cut and the unquestionable durability of the garment, all to no effect! Invariably it was rejected for another robe less offensive fo artistic susceptibilities, and relegated to the oblivion of the shelf.

The inability to dispose of the bath robe weighed on Maurice's soul. It hurt his business pride, and worse than all, it conveyed a subtle reflection on his ability as a salesman. Customers came and went, but the bathrobe remained. It became an obsession.

His wife noticed there was somethin on his mind, but to her questions Maurice returned evasive answers. He kept his secret to himself. In the meantime he never relaxed his efforts to sell the garment. Hope deferred maketh the heart sick, but every new customer for a bathrobe brought a new lease of life to

The months dragged on. Business i bathrobes was good, but nobody wanted the drab-colored article. Maurice thought of a scheme—he marked down the price. He sagely advised custom ers to consider the saving in cost and weigh it against the unlovely design.

A bathrobe was for indoor use. What mattered the color so long as quality and comfort were assured? All the art of persuasiveness that long experience had engendered were brought to bear to sell the article. But it remained un-

Maurice grew thin. He complained of not feeling well, and his doctor advised him to rest up a bit. The trouble, the physician assured him, was nervous indigestion. The next day, however, was Saturday, the busiest day of the week. Maurice could not afford to rest up on a Saturday of all days. He would rest on Sunday, when the store was closed and no business doing. Therefore at 6 o'clock the next morning he was at work as usual, and all day long twinges of indigestion alternated with spells of pleased satisfaction as customers came and went, depleting his wares and amplifying his receipts till the music of the Late that night when business had slackened off and it seemed that the last omer had been served, Maurice prepared to close the store. With the cessation of business his indigestion became more scute, and he felt downright sick. Just then a woman entered and inquired if she might look at a gentleman's bath-

She did not know much about gentle men's bathrobes, she declared. She wished to make a birthday gift and would rely entirely upon Maurice's judgment in the matter. Maurice's wearied active life. With the most gracious of amiles he produced the sartorial nightmare from its accustomed place and launched forth into a panegyric on its qualities that put all his previous efforts in the shade. How he expatiated on its merits, its cheapness, its utilitarian de sign! Could anything be more appropriate for a gift, prove more useful o ings of the recipient would be touched now his heart would respond to such a token of regard and esteem? Would the lady take it or have it sent?

The lady would take it. Mauric beamed his gratification, and wrapped up the bathrobe with feverish haste before a possible change of mind might take place; and an exultant thrill of up the sale on the register and obseously bowed the lady to the door. It was an eminently fitting climax to a
